Congress Can Settle Aguinaldo. om the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Aguinaldo is relying almost solely upon the action of Congress. He hopes, and so he has declared to his followers, that when Congress meets in December it will de-cide to abandon what he terms "the imperialist policy" and "this bloody work," and hand the islands over to the Filipinos, meaning by Filipinos, Aguinaldo. Therefore, he counsels his followers to stand firm and so conduct themselves that the American Congress will order a complete surrender to them urrender to them.

American Congress will order a complete surrender to them.

Congress can put an end to this adventurer very quickly. He has been led to suppose by his comparatively few but very noisy sympathizers in this country that President McKinley is about the only American citizen who believes in putting down the insurrection. He has great faith in Atkinson and Boutwell, in Lentz and Altgeld, and he believes most thoroughly in Brother Bryan. From these gentlemen he thinks he has discovered that the great bulk of American citizenship believes with them. Congress, therefore, should act promptly and let him understand just where he does stand.

In a record. alterable position of this country. Such a resolution would set forth that this government intends to suppress the insurrection, and then to grant under the sovereignty of the United States the broadest kind of lo-cal self-government. Such a resolution, the authoritative proclamation of Congress, would come pretty close to ending both Aguinaldo and his in-surrectionists.

Carbolic Acid and Suicide.

From the New York Herald. The way the suicides are advertising the obsonous qualities of carbolic acid makes more and more fashionable to use the drug for the purpose indicated. With the desperate and the weakminded the power of imitation manifests itself as directly in boosing this particular means for self-de struction as in stimulating the original pur-pose of the act.

In view of the ease with which the article can be obtained in any pharmacy it be-comes a matter of public policy to restrict its sale within the legitimate limits of ras sale within the legitimate limits of safety to life. Although an article of ordinary commerce, made such by its disinfecting properties, there does not seem to be any reason with should not be classed with other poisons of its kind and sold only under certain guaranteed conditions of proper and legitimate use.

roper and legitimate use, If it could be understood by those con-emplating self-destruction that carbolic acid was very difficult to obtain unless the purchaser was properly identified we should not only have fewer deaths, but fewer temptations to that end. It is the readiness with which this means can be adopted that often determines the end, especially as in suicide the governing factor is ofttimes merely a transient impulse. If the drug-gist will always make sure of his customer he may never be an accessory to preventi-ble murder.

Agninaldo's Inhumanity. From the Nashville Banner.

Would-be Dictator Aguinaldo's character would be Dictator Aguinados character is indicated by his treatment of the Spanish prisoners, whom he refuses to release. He not only holds these prisoners when their country is ro longer at war with him, but he subjects them to unnecessary hardships and privations. Aguinaldo's main purpose in retaining the Spanish prisoners is to extort money for their release, but, inding that Spain would not pay the enormous sums demanded, he now insirts that, in addition to such ransom money as he can secure. Spain recognize him as the rightful ruler of the Philippines. Of course. Spain could not honorably do this, nor could she afford to offend the United States by such an action; we Applied to heart by such an action; yet Aguinaldo heart-lessly keeps the thousands of Spanish pris-oners, who are said to be in a distressing condition and are dying in great numbers. Aguinaldo's inhumanity in this matter is but another proof of his unworthiness to

Must Maintain Its Rights.

From the Kansas City Star. The great trade stake of the future is recognized in all industrial nations to be the rapidly developing Chinese demand for manufactured goods, and the United States has only to maintain its present prestige in the orient and to continue its present progress in manufactures to get the lion's share of that trade. Whether China is to be dismembered and divided up among the great powers which are contending for dominion there, or is to maintain its integrity as a nation by reason of the inability of the European nations to agree on the parts that each is to acquire, the United States must maintain the rights of trade that it has secured by treaty with the Chinese, and a firm, clear policy, pursued without any hesitancy or deviation, and backed by the constant presence of powerful warships in oriental seas, will accomplish this result and keep China open to American goods, whatever other nations may be shut out of different sections of the kingdom.

Who Will Be the First?

From the New York Mail and Express. Now, will some Atkinsonian idiot who has been reaching for political place by trampling under foot the national flag please step forward and denounce the Philippine commission, including Dewey, as a group of men who don't know what they are talking about? Who will be first among the gaseous mob to invite general ridicule and be hissed from the stage? PARKER, BRIDGET & CO.

French Lingerie.

French Lingerie, unlike French Millinery, is not more fad than merit. We're not condeming the latter, for the French cleverness, taste and artisticness are recognized to so great a degree that their styles are accepted by all the world. However, in headgear true style may reign, yet real merit may be lacking. Not so with Lin-gerie. Merit shows first, then style appeals to the artistic sense. Our showing of French Lingerie is nothing if not perfect. The dainty needlework, the rich embroidering and hemstitching, the delicate laces and ribbons, the soft nainsooks, all so beautifully combined, at once reflect the extreme of creation. We have gathered lavishly, helpfully and economically. The prospective bride need no longer wander away from home or tax her energy in the preparation of her trousseau, for we show the latest and best that France produces.

American products in this line are also here, vieing with their cousins from across the water and claiming that the mere place of creation is not all. Quite true, some of the rich and dainty pieces turned out by American hands and machinery readily shows that America is also master in the art of design. All this is shown in our little French room, besides Silk Hosiery, Neckwear, Linen and Lace Handkerchiefs, etc.

And in the fair prices is shown best of all the Parker Bridget helpfulness. With careful buying and equally as careful selling you are assured in every instance only of intrinsic worth. The Little French room awaits you.

Women's Tailor-Made Gowns, $24.85.

Our stock of Women's Man-Tailored Suits is at present in its richest bloom. The line at $24.85 is a large, carefully selected one, and represents all the popular weaves, notable among which are the Blue and Black Cheviot Serges and Gray Homespuns. Jackets are cut in the newest single and double-breasted tight-fitting and box effects. Skirts are fashioned in the latest styles. Both Jackets and Skirts lined throughout with best quality taffeta silk. We are told by customers they are the best values in town. They are readily worth $35.00, and are as well made and finished as a $50.00 suit.

Women's Tailor-Made Gowns, $18.75.

Of latest and most popular fabrics, of course. Styles very similar to the higher priced. Jackets lined with taffeta silk. Suits selling regularly for more at many stores cannot compare favorably with these, while at the same price their equals are not in town. However, it's for you to decide. We do know that the styles are those in greatest demand, not the commonplace sorts found almost everywhere.

WM. HAHN & CO.'S 3 Reliable Shoe Houses,

The Twentieth Kankas' Homecoming. From the Kansas City Star.

There was no imperialism in the scene on Thursday at Tepeka. The people realized, all at once, and were touched by the great fact that they saw the passing of today into history. They saw the same young men who had answered to the call to arms, who had departed in the moties array of men who had answered to the tan to arins, who had departed in the motley array of citizen-soldiery, return in war uniforms and hand to the custody of the state the flags they had borne in battle on another soil. After the blaze of welcome, the shout and the acclaim, the soldier would be again the citizen. citizen.

There was no imperialism in that. It proclaimed the fact that the republic is not the empire. Citizens had departed to be soldiers and soldiers returned to be citizens. soldiers and soldiers returned to be citizens.

In the faces of the warriors who returned was no pride of military caste. Nothing in the scene suggested anything but the eternal supremacy of the people. The young men were sent by the people and returned to the people. All who witnessed the spectral control of the archipelago.

Our Inevitable Duty.

From the Chicago Tribune. It is impossible to see how any unbiased person can read the report of the Philip-pine commission without being convinced that it is the inevitable duty of the United States, both for its own honor and for the greatest measure of liberty to the Filipinos, to suppress the insurrection and maintain a general control of the archipelago.
